

Textbooks and Classroom Materials

How to order books

SRDS provides books and resource materials for many classes, however, if a class appears on the textbook list, then a purchase by families is required. Textbooks may be purchased or rented, new or used through any vendor. Workbooks should be purchased new only. Use the ISBN on the list of textbooks to find the correct edition of the needed book. You may wish to hold off purchasing books for upper school students until the students' schedules are finalized in July particularly for elective courses.

New York State residents may be eligible to get some or all books provided by contacting their home school district. More information is available at https://stateaid.nysed.gov/tsl/html\_docs/txtbk03.htm#

Cooperative New Jersey State residents complete a textbook form each year which allows SRDS to purchase classroom sets of textbooks for use at school. The textbook form is available on the SRDS website.

Other materials

At the start of the school year, teachers will provide students with lists of materials needed for classes. For the first days of school, students should have a notebook and folder along with pens or pencils to write with as they gather the start-up information for each class. Students in middle and upper school math and science classes should have graphing calculators. The requirements for student computers are listed on the website. You may contact the technology department with any questions at tech@saddleriverday.org.

If you are considering Amazon... You may select Saddle River Day School as a charitable recipient of a small percentage of each purchase. Follow this link:
